NORWAY AND VICINITY

More than twenty-five years have passed since Norway has been through a rainless every spell over local baseball like today. Everybody talks it from the street corner to the supper table. The baseball club and its doings is the leading topic from early morning until late at night. Sedate business men "go nuts" at the fair grounds and keep it up during the week. Truly we are living in a new age when politics before an exciting presidental campaign must bow in humble submission before a more vigorous opponent.

"Shorty" Fanouf and Fred Banks served frankforts and cold drinks at the Cornish fair last week.

Somebody without the right has dug up a plant from a child's grave in Rustfield Cemetery, and it should be returned to the place where it was taken from and no questions will be asked. The plant was valuable as it was placed on the grave 70 years ago and has been watched over and cared for by the lady who put it there when her little brother died and she was ten years of age. The person could not have been mistaken about its being a grave as there were other plants and a head stone. This plant has never been disturbed in all these years until now.

Doris Clough has returned to her home in Augusta after spending several weeks with her aunt, Mrs. Charles F. Ridlon.

Loyal Order of Moose will hold a special business meeting Friday evening September 3. Every member is expected to attend.

BASEBALL

Sanford 7; Norway 5

Some 2,000 fans witnessed the game at the fair grounds Thursday when Freddie Parent's ex-major leaguers carried away the bacon in one of the fastest games pulled off here this season.

Norway was dazzled by the array of notables and failed to rally until the last of the game. "Dutch" Penfold occupied the mound for Norway, but was touched freely with uncertain support at critical times. The score:

Norway A. A. 3; Livermore Falls 2

In a close and exciting battle the Norway A. A. won the return match over the Livermore Falls American Legion team at the County fair grounds Saturday afternoon. Attendance, about 1,300.

The affair was a pitcher's battle with Hunt and Williams holding the big sectors. Both twirlers had excellent support. Williams worked in better form than on his first appearance here and aside from filling the bases with passes in the first inning, he had several hard hitting Norwayites eating from his hand. He also fielded brilliantly. Hunt was a puzzle to the visitors, although they tapped the ball more freely than the home bunch yet were unable to make any headway against clean fielding and his ability to size up the situation.

Nobody claimed the game, and the result rested on ticklish support until the last Livermore batter retired. The way things were going an extra inning fight was predicted, but with the visitors three runs behind a winning in the ninth, they failed to close the gap.

Williams pitched himself into a bad place in the first inning with a display of good and bad twirling. He passed three, struck out two, then slammed the score door in Norway's face by holding a drive from Lynch's bat for the third put out.

Many spectacular stunts were pulled off as goose eggs accumulated. Dewhirst covered third in strong form and nailed several on first with clean cut work. "Pip" Haskell was in the line-up and held the second sack in good form. Duncan had little opportunity to show the trick of nailing sprinters on second, they were not tempting fate.

Score Making

Livermore made the first run in the sixth inning. Cannon, the first up, singled into center, made second when Coady hit weakly to Lynch, went third as Masterman sacrificed and scored when Haskell failed to handle Stearns' grounder.

Norway also commenced run getting in the sixth. Duncan hit sharply to Coady and landed safely on a low throw to first, a passed ball sent him to second and Dillon's single into center made the tally. Sacrifice by Trafton and Lynch single into right sent in the second run, putting Norway into the advance guard.

Norway cleaned up another run in the eighth on a combination of errors, wild throws, and two fielder's choices. Dillon the first up, made the initial sack on Coady's slip, but went into a put out on third when Williams fielded Trafton's infield tap. Lynch was put in the running as his hit went for a fielder's choice while trying to nail Trafton. Haggerty lined a beauty through second and scored Trafton. In the mix-up and tangle, Haggerty continued on to second and forced Lynch into a put out between bases. Dewhirst was retired by Williams to Masterman and closed the batting rally.

All conceeded this game a fast one with put outs almost in regular order. Norway had the best break as runners were placed in circulation every inning but the second, third and fifth. The Legion were not able to swing a thing in the third, fifth, seventh and eighth. The score:

Beryle McKay was rescued from Lake Pennesseewassee as she was going down the third time. First aid treatment was administered and she was rushed to the village in an automobile where a physician worked a long time to bring her back to full consciousness and away from danger.

The accident occurred Tuesday afternoon while a number of young ladies from the village were swimming at Gibson's Grove near the sandy beach. Miss McKay who is learning waded beyond her depth where the beach drops several feet. Her cries brought Madeline Wyman to her assistance and several cottagers made a quick run to the spot. Miss Wyman succeeded in dragging the unconscious girl from deep water, both were assisted to land. Roland Andrews who was fishing near Bass Island administered first aid and Kenmure Moffatt rushed the unconscious girl to a physician.

The spot where the accident occurred is but a short distance from the scene of the tragedy where three young people in a party lost their lives four years ago. The dangerous place was roped off at the time, only posts mark the spot this season. Hundreds of bathers frequent this vicinity but no serious accidents have marred their pleasure in late years.

This plan was given up and a man-hole was drilled through the cement and wire reinforcement over the water main, then digging proceeded downward and repairs completed. This is the first case of cutting the road since it was laid down.

Red blood
Rich, red blood coursing through your veins is a sure sign of a good digestion. Unless your stomach, liver and other digestive organs are working promptly and thoroughly, the blood cannot assimilate all the nourishment from your food; your energy and vitality are not renewed.
Eat all you want, only avoid too much pastry and rich foods, but be sure to take plenty of time to chew slowly and well. Chewing is the first part of the process of digestion. A teaspoonful of "L.F." Atwood's Medicine occasionally, will purge your system of impurities, and allow only nutritious elements to enter the blood. It will keep your liver active and you will get the full benefit of your food.
Keep a bottle of "L.F." always on hand. It is absolutely harmless under all conditions, and will help young and old alike. It has been a household remedy in many families for three generations. Your dealer sells it for 50c a bottle. If you have never tried it, get a bottle today, "L.F." Medicine Co., Portland, Maine.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

On the death of Bro. Hiram Holt.

Whereas, the great Master of us all has summoned from our midst our brother Hiram F. Holt

Resolved: That we deplore the loss of a friend and brother, but we realize that our times are in God's hand and that He doth not afflict willingly.

Resolved: That to the wife and children of our brother we extend sincerest sympathy and we would have them comforted by the thought that "when this earthly house of our tabernacle is dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens"—a house where there shall never be either sickness or sadness.

Resolved: That these resolutions be spread upon our records, a copy sent to the family of Bro. Holt and a copy to the Advertiser for publication and that our charter be draped for thirty days.

LAID TO REST

Mrs. A. A. Burbank's Funeral Very Largely Attended

The funeral of Mrs. A. A. Burbank was held at the Little Church of the Flowers, August 4th, at 2 p. m., her pastor Rev. O. P. Rider, conducting the service and the Presbyterian Choir sang. At the grave each of the ladies of the church laid a carnation on the casket, already covered with beautiful flowers in loving remembrance and sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Abbie Ann Andrews was born Jan. 22, 1842, at Fryeburg, Me. She was the fifteenth child in a family of sixteen brothers and sisters. The youngest, Joseph A. Andrews of Hurley, S. D., alone survives her. She was married to Ezekiel W. Burbank at Lovell, Maine, March 24, 1867. To this union were born two children, Henry B., who died in 1915 and Mrs. Fannie Gile of Glendale, Calif.

Mrs. Burbank lived in New England until 1898. She then moved to South Dakota and made her home with her brother until 1909, when she went to Tropico, now Glendale, where she has since lived. Mrs. Burbank was of a family of Congregationalists, but since living in the West, has been a member of the Presbyterian Church. Until the death of her son in 1915, he was her constant companion. After his death her daughter and family left their New England home to come to live with her. Her brother, Joseph Andrews, made her several extended visits in her California home, spending the past winter with her much to her satisfacton as a very strong affection existed between them.

Though Mrs. Burbank had been frail for many years her last sickness came very suddenly June 18th. From the first she was very ill. Everything that her family physician and nurse could do for her was done. The end came early on Monday, August 2d. As her pastor, I have known her intimately for four and a half years. I have found her always a warm-hearted, sympathetic friend, responsive to every appeal according to her ability. Though burdened with the wieght of years and poor health, her greatest desire was to be doing something useful. How many times we hear her ask in her gentle, timid, quiet way, "Can't I help?" And she did help in the homes of friends in times of sickness or stress, she was a great comfort.

During the war she was one of the first to respond to the call of the Red Cross. Knitting at home and in the exacting work of making surgical dressings, excelling the young women in skill and rapidity. She had a great love of beauty and never ceased to be interested in beautiful handwork. Her own skill was wonderful and she was never happier than when making gifts for her family and friends.

Her love for little children was remarkable, she loved to spend the Sunday school hour in the primary rooms with the little ones, and her dear friends, the superintendent and organist. In her own quiet way she knew and loved the children of the neighborhood. She told us of this incident. Soon after the loss of her son, she was alone on the porch one July morning feeling utterly lonely and depressed, when she saw two little children coming with flowers in their hands. She wondered where they were going and was surprised when they laid the flowers in her lap and ran away. She ended by saying, "I felt better all day." Mrs. Burbank's body grew frail, she mourned the loss of memory, but her heart did not grow old. In the last year of her life she showed increasing interest in many things. She surprised the superintendent of the missionary society by asking for books to read and during the winter she read three volumes of missionary biography, and as a result wished so much that she could give more. Her heart was specially stirred by the sufferings of the Armenians, and each month she brought double the amount she had pledged for the Sunday school offering. Upon the presentation of the Pocket Testament League, she immediately signed up and her Testament was her constant companion. As I think of her now, I should say that her greatest characteristic was helpfulness. Though she was not likely to propose work she never discouraged it, but said "I would like to help." One of the last acts of her life was to carry back garments finished for the child of a sick mother.

We shall miss her. Her family and friends will miss her in her home. Her brother and relatives will miss the interesting letters she wrote faithfully. We shall miss her in her place in church so seldom vacant. The woman's Bible Class will miss her as the most regular attendant. The Missionary Society will miss her. Most of all perhaps the Ladies' Aid Society will miss her as their gifts were most in evidence and in the intimate companionship of friends long known and loved she was most happy.

A few months ago Mrs. Burbank chose for her special comfort this text 1st Thess. 5-10, "Our Lord Jesus, who died for us, that whether we wake or sleep we should live together with the Lord" and this was the source of her strength.

I marvel when I think of all the sorrows and trials that came to her in her long life, and the quite courage with which she met them in uncomplaining patience. Surely she leaned not on the arm of flesh, but cast her cares upon Him who cared for her. On Thursday before her death I saw her for the last time. Though suffering greatly; a look of peace came over her face as we repeated the 23d psalm, and her whispered "Pray for me" was evidence that her trust was in the Lord.

To her children and grandchildren and friends no comfort can be so great as our knowledge that though she saw through a glass darkly here, she sees now face to face and to her the promise is fulfilled. When we shall see Him we shall be like Him, and he shall wipe all tears from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning nor crying, nor pain any more and His servants shall do Him service and they shall see His face and His name shall be in their foreheads and there shall be night no more, and they need no light of lamp, neither light of sun, for the Lord God shall give them light and they shall reign forever and ever.

Automobile terms are entering everything. "I can spell a word with four cylinders," a small boy told his mother. A few minutes later the same boy discovered that his pup was lame in one leg. "Tige is hitting on only three cylinders," the boy told his father.

We need just one more law: that a young man should not be allowed to keep company with a girl more than two years without marrying her.

A man who is handsome and knows it is much more obnoxious than a woman who is beautiful and knows it.

West Paris 3; Oxford 2

In the fastest and most interesting game played at West Paris in years, the home outfit nosed out the strong Oxford team 3-2 in ten innings last Saturday. Never did two more evenly matched teams face each other, although according to the box score, West Paris had a very slight margin over the visitors. Benson engaged the veteran Delano in a southpaw duel and while both were touched up rather freely at times, they were accorded brilliant support, especially in the outfield.

Oxford scored the first run of the game in the second inning. Cusack walked, went second and third on two successive outs at first base and scored as Rowe threw high over third in an attempt to catch him napping.

West Paris came back in the third, Perham laced a single past Cusack, Coulter made a bad throw on Doughty's grounder. Benson lined directly into Fuller's hands, but Cusack filled the bases when he bungled Billings' drive. Sawyer hit to Coulter who nailed Doughty at third, Perham scoring the tieing run in the meantime.

Oxford took the lead again in the fifth when Fuller led off with a double to left center and crossed the plate as Perham lost Shepard's long hit in the sun.

Billings started the eighth with a single to left field. Sawyer laid a perfect bunt down the third base line and beat it out. On an attempted squeeze play, Winch picked up Hill's bunt to nail Billings, but Rowe followed with another bunt which enabled Sawyer to score.

In the tenth inning, Benson retired Oxford on three pitched balls, but Delano who was apparently weakening, was less fortunate. Sawyer smashed a long liner to center for a safety. Hill was safe on Shepard's error and Rowe came to bat. Delano got one strike on him, and then attempted to sneak a fast one by. Ball and bat connected and the game was over. The score:

MONEY VALUE OF LIFE

The quickest way to persuade a man of the value of health education is in terms of money. If he can be shown what he or his community loses or gains financially through the lack or presence of public health workers in that community, he will then more readily be convinced of the physical advantages of such work. Translated into dollars and cents, the story of public health work, including the campaign for stamping out venereal diseases, controlling communicable disease, child welfare, inspection of milk, and meat, and a score of kindred activities, is impressive enough to convince the most conservative.

Blueberries are abundant. With the market supplied with sugar and ideal weather for picking, the cellar shelf will groan under a load of preserved berries, the like not seen since Bill Kaiser started his finish.

THE COST OF LIVING

"The cost of living," says Roger W. Babson, the well known statistician and financial expert, in his copyrighted report of Babson's Statistical Organization, Inc., "cannot be decreased by legislation or any other artificial means." While Mr. Babson's articles usually are prepared mainly for the eye of merchants, bankers and brokers and investors, this one, entitled "Frocks or Food," has so much of general public interest that Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Director of the Savings Division of the First Federal Reserve District, secured his permission to make it public. According to the author production per man has fallen from twenty to forty percent below normal, people do not want to produce and are mainly bent on spending, "having become lazy and careless as well as extravagant." He estimates that last year the American people spent more than $22,000,000,000 on non-essentials and he claims that the time is approaching when people will have to do with out useless clothes and other luxuries or prices will soar still higher. The lesson that he points is that the purchasing power of money and credit cannot be increased by increasing the supply of money, so the only thing to do is to get down to work and return to the war-time thrift; that labor must not be wasted on non-essentials. Mr. Babson's remarks follow:

"We hear so much nonsense about the cost of living and its causes, that a frank discussion of the subject is necessary at this time.

There is only a limited amount of labor and materials.

"(1) The same glass, iron and labor which go into making automobiles cannot be used for making houses; the same wool cotton and time consumed in making faddish wearing apparel, most of which is sheer waste, is not available for useful articles. It is estimated that last year the American people spent over $22,000,000,000 on non-essentials. If millions of men are engaged in producing materials for making luxuries or in manufacturing or selling luxuries of any kind, they have not time to devote to raising foodstuffs and making the essentials of life. Hence we must either do without useless clothes and other luxuries or have the price of necessities soar.

"(2) Seven-eights of the selling effort today is directed to getting people to buy luxuries, according to rough calculation. If you doubt it, look at the advertising columns of your daily newspapers. Notice each advertisement and ask yourself whether the nation or any individual is better off by purchasing such articles. Certainly the great majority of this stuff makes no one healthier, happier or more prosperous. When looking at the matter from an impartial standpoint, it seems impossible that sane people could be induced to give good money for such useless things.

"3 Under these conditions, it is evident that there can be no material reduction in the cost of living except as people (especially our wives and daughters) stop buying luxuries. For instance, all the newspapers and the nation's best brains are directed to selling the most extravagant luxuries. Will people stop such buying until forced by panic and depression to stop? If our women buy—not from necessity—but simply "to keep up with the Joneses," will they stop buying until the Jones' stop first? Statistics show that the Jones' will never stop until forced to by lack of funds or by lack of employment.

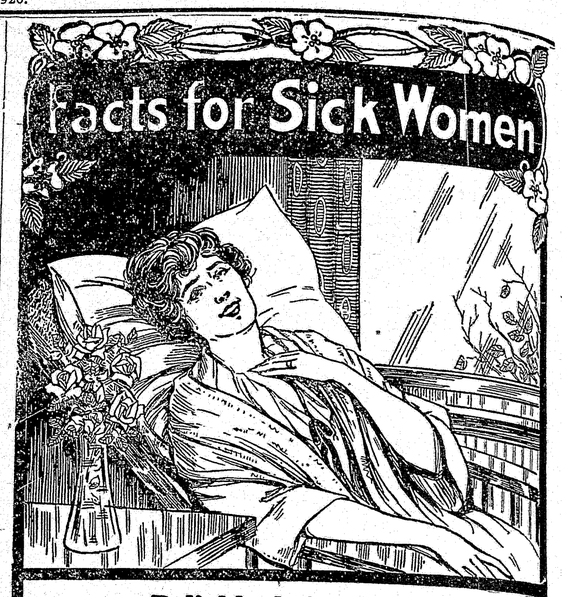

"(4) The total purchasing power of money and credit cannot be increased by increasing the supply of money. We can expand the quantity of soup by pouring in water; but this does not increase the total value of the soup. When we double the amount of paper money, we reduce by one-half the purchasing power of each dollar. As the real assets behind our currency decrease, those who know about it want more money for their materials. This in turn raises the price of other things. Labor then must have more, and so the merry-go-round operates. In the food-producing sections of the West, farmers applying for credit to market their goods are being turned down. The farmer has begun to grow restless. He takes the risk of producing food and then finds it difficult, perhaps even unprofitable, to market this food. And in addition he sees great amounts of capital being absorbed in the production of chewing gum, candy, pleasure cars, summer furs, and other non-essentials.

"(5) Most people are becoming lazy and careless as well as extravagant. Consumption is not only increasing, but production is falling off. Movie houses and beauty shops are crowded; very few people are doing an honest day's work. Production per man has fallen in industry by 20 per cent to 40 percent, and this applies often to the officials and directors of corporations as well as to the wage-workers. On the farms it is almost impossible to get help. There is sure to be a milk shortage this winter. Everyone wants to consume or to sell. Very few want to produce. People have entirely forgotten their obligations to society. The Gospel of Service is being entirely forgotten. This is why I say that the need of the hour is Religion.

"(6) Immigration—Most necessary for low costs— has very seriously declined. Previously in our country's history we have had a continual supply of unskilled labor from Europe. Our farms, mines and forests have been largely worked by foreign people a month, we now have barely a margin of new arrivals over departures. The labor leaders are correct in their reasoning that the shutting out of the immigrant will boost wages; but it won't give their followers more food. Someone must work on the farms, at the mines and in the forests. Otherwise we must go without food, coal and lumber. We cannot all be "skilled" workmen, chauffeurs and clerks.

"It is not my purpose to advise people to stop buying, but rather to call attention to this fact; Whether people voluntarily stop buying to prevent further inflation or are compelled to do so by high prices and lack of funds, the result will be the same. It means that many will temporarily be thrown out of work. Readjustment always causes suffering. Hence there is sure to be considerable suffering during the next few years. This suffering can be lessened only as we save more, only as we buy more thrift stamps, put more money in the banks and purchase bonds.

"The cost of living cannot be decreased by legislation or any other artificial means. The problem is really a religious problem rather than a physical problem, a religion which will make people, think along sound economic lines. During the latter half of every period of depression, people become thrifty, industrious, and get imbued with the gospel of service. These qualities lay the foundation for the following period of prosperity. During the later half of every period of prosperity, people became extravagant, inefficient and irreligious. These qualities result in the inevitable depression which follows. We cannot have our pie and eat it too. We must choose between spending and thrift; between frocks and food. We can't have both."

Reliable Information

All American women know of the great success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in restoring to health women who suffered from ailments peculiar to their sex, yet there are some who are skeptical and do not realize that all that is claimed for it is absolutely true—if they did, our laboratory would not be half large enough to supply the demand, though today it is the largest in the country used for the manufacture of one particular medicine.

The Facts contained in the following two letters should prove of benefit to many women:

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I suffered with organic inflammation and displacement. When lifting I had such pain and bearing down that I was not able to stand up, and it hurt me to walk or go up or down stairs. I was going to a doctor without any results and he said the safest thing would be to have an operation. I met a lady who told me she had three operations and was not well until she took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

I felt relief after taking two bottles of Vegetable Compound and I kept on with it until I was cured. I always use Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and they are fine. Everything used to turn sour on my stomach and the Liver Pills relieved that."—Mrs. A. Rogers, 593 Fargo Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Sacramento, Calif.—"I had organic trouble and had such terrible pain and swelling in the lower part of my side that I could not stand on my feet or even let the bed clothes touch my side. I gave up my work thinking I would not be able to go back for months. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had saved her life at one time, and it put me in a wonderful condition in a couple of weeks, so I can keep on working. I work in a department store and have to stand on my feet all day and I do not have any more pains. I surely recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Bertha J. Parker, 3320 M St., Sacramento, Calif.

Oxford County Men Vote To Organize A Farm Bureau

More than a score of representative farmers from the principal towns of Oxford County met at the Municipal Rooms in Norway Tuesday for the purpose of discussing the formation of a Farm Bureau. It was the unanimous vote that such should be organized.

The meeting was called to order by G. A. Yeaton, the County Agent, who explained the purpose of the gathering and the need of a Farm Bureau in the county. W. H. Conant of Buckfield was elected temporary chairman and W. M. Morse of Waterford secretary and treasurer until the final organization can be perfected.

W. B. Deering, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation, followed Mr. Yeaton, describing what the state organization had accomplished. This speaker was followed by the Secretary of the State Federation, A. L. Deering, who discussed the object of the Farm Bureau and its value to Oxford County farmers. Every man present joined the organization before leaving and was unanimous in his belief that this county could have one of the strongest Bureaus in the state.

The Secretary of the State Federation, A. L. Deering, described the growth of the Farm Bureau movement as follows: "The Farm Bureau was organized approximately ten years ago, since that time every county in the 33 states of the North and West has organized bureaus. These Bureaus have then gotten together and organized State Federations. The State Federations have recently organized a National Federation representing the 33 states and more than a million members. The object of the Farm Bureau is to promote and protect agriculture. It replaces no organization nor does it do the work of those now of benefit to the farmer. It could well be compared to an active Chamber of Commerce, working for the interest of the farmers of the county."

Oxford County and its people should be very much interested in such an organization for W. B. Deering referred to the fact that the State Federation had recently secured the enactment of a law which "makes available $2,000 to any County Farm Bureau having 200 or more members," furthermore Oxford Co. has the same problems and can receive the same benefit from the Farm Bureau as the other counties.

It is not to the discredit of Oxford County that they have not had a Farm Bureau before; however, the fact remains that every county in Maine is served by such an organization as this. There are today Farm Bureaus in all of the counties of Maine except this having a total of over 200 towns of the State.

Mr. Yeaton has already arranged meetings for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the following towns: Dixfield, Rumford Center, Canton, Sumner, Hebron, Buckfield, Norway, Waterford and South Paris. Similar meetings will also be arranged for in the remaining towns durng October for the purpose of placing before the people of each town the value such an organization can be to them.

The following were the leading men present at the meeting Tuesday: W. M. Morse, R. O. Deering, Leslie E. McIntire, Harold S. Pike, Fred H. Johnson, E. K. Kilgore, H. H. Maxim, G. W. Richardson, Stephen Abbott, A. Van Den Kerckhoven, E. E. Conant, W. H. Conant, Sidney Brown and J. W. G. Walker.

HOW A WANT IS CREATED

What has been done can be done again

Here are a few suggestions as to how some large institutions hold trade and create wants by advertising, where no want seemed to exist and what is true on a large scale is true on a smaller scale.

Oil is so common a commodity that it would seem impossible to find the person who is not familiar with it, yet millions of dollars are annually sent in the U. S. for publicity in the interest of oil for lighting, for lubricating and for food. Strange, isn't it, that so large and well known a concern as the Standard Oil Co. should find it profitable to advertise in more than ten thousand papers.

Railroads—how foolish to think people do not know about them, still the greatest systems of the United States find it pays them to spend a very considerable part of their revenue in advertising. Ten million dollars is what report says they will spend during 1920. Does not this demonstrate faith in advertising?

It is the same way with crackers, breakfast food, soap and most of the common necessities of life. Is it not strange that the more generally they seem to be in demand, the more profitable the best manufacturers seem to find continuous advertising?

Owners of the the telephone, the telegraph and even the newspapers, not withstanding the general knowledge the public have of them, still find it profitable to advertise.

Think what advertising has done for the development of the automobile industry, even though people were fairly well satisfied with the old methods of travel.

No class of business men are so successful as those who are engaged in supplying the most common necessities of life and, yet, these are the men who most willingly invest the largest sums in advertising.

HOW TO TREAT IVY POISONING

In the early stages of ivy poisoning remedies having a fatty or oily base, such as ointments, should not be used, as the grease or oil tends to dissolve and spread the poison, according to specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Instead they advise simple remedies such as local applications of solutions of cooking soda or of Epsom salt, one or two heaping teaspoons to a cup of water. Fluid extract of grindelia, diluted with 4 to 8 parts of water, is often used.

Solutions of this kind may be applied with light bandages or clean cloths, which should be kept moist, and should be changed and discarded frequently to avoid infection. During the night or when moist applications can not be used, the poisoned surfaces should be carefully cleaned and dried and left exposed to the air rather than tightly bandaged. In the later stage, after the toxic material has exhausted itself, zinc-oxid ointment and similar mild antiseptic and astringent applications hasten healing.

These are a few of the helpful hints concerning ivy poisoning contained in Farmers' Bulletin 1166, which tells also how to distinguish between poison ivy and poison sumac. The bulletin is illustrated with pictures of the two plants, which are often confused.

TO CONNECT WITH CENTRAL MAINE POWER SYSTEM

The men began work Monday morning on the new power line from Deer Rips to Mechanic Falls, tieing in the Oxford Electric Company with the Central Maine Power System. This line will be 15 miles long and an effort will be made to maintain the "mile of line a day" construction record they set on the Farmingdale line.

The new line to the Oxford Company will insure the towns of Mechanic Falls, Norway and South Paris from any shortage of power, for they will be on the main Central Maine Power System, with all its big hydro-electric power stations backed by the steam reserve stations. In the past these towns have been hampered in industrial growth because of a shortage of electrical power, especially during low water periods, but as soon as they are "tied up," these troubles will cease.

Company officials state that the line will probably be completed inside of five or six weeks. The Central Maine Power Company is also contemplating the possibility of line extensions as soon as this connection is made, to West Paris, Paris Hill and Poland Corner.

Mrs. E. Hamilton Gained 15 pounds

Had Suffered For Ten Years, But Feels Like Different Person Now

"My ten years of troubles have completely left me and I have gained fifteen pounds in weight since I began taking Tanlac," was the statement made the other day by Mrs. Edith Hamilton of 20 Bradford St., Portland, Maine.

"Words just can't express what I have gone through during the past ten years," continued Mrs. Hamilton, "only my friends and neighbors know how I have suffered. I could not get to sleep until one and two o'clock in the morning and then my sleep was restless and broken. I had indigestion so bad that the pains in my stomach nearly drew me double, I suffered with a heavy, distressing feeling after every meal and at times I thought I would choke to death. My housework was a burden, and during the day I would give completely out and have to lie down to rest. I got up every morning tired out and from then on till night I felt weak and miserable.

"None of the medicines I tried did me any good until I started taking Tanlac, and now that I have taken three bottles, I am feeling like a different person altogether. My digestion just simply could not be any better than it is now, and it doesn't make any difference what I eat I never suffer afterwards. The pains in my stomach have all disappeared and so has that feeling of distress I used to have. My sleep is sound as can be and I never wake up once until it is time to get up. I am more energetic than ever and I can do my housework without tiring one bit. I have gained in weight and strength and am in better general health than in many years."

SEA TURNS

Great Diamond Island, Portland, Aug. 17, 1920.

Editor of the Advertiser: During the past week we have had much foggy weather. It has not been very bad here on the island, but out in the track of the boats there has been a great deal of blowing of steam whistles and fog horns night and day. Thursday was a fairly good day and I went down the bay to Long Island where the veterans of the old 1st, 10th and 29th regiments had their annual reunion. The first man I saw was a little wiry fellow past the age of 85 and in such good health that he had come across the continent to attend the reunion. His residence was in Portland, Oregon, but he was a member of the Soldiers' Home at Los Angeles, Cal., but away on furlough. His name was A. A. Drake and the first question he asked me after he found I was from Norway, was: "How is Capt. Whitmarsh?" I told him that Norway's grand old man was confined to the house, but was being tenderly cared for by his wife and daughter. "He was one of the best officers in the Regiment," said he, "and I shall go to see him when I go up to the Fair in September."

Mr. Drake, on the way down to Doughty's Landing where we got off the boat, gave me much information about the Pacific Coast country. I incidentally mentioned some fierce thunder showers we had recently experienced here. "Oh! we don't have any in Los Angeles," said he, "but I remember one we had a few years ago. The thunder just rumbled a little and I was so disgusted that I cried out, "Why in thunder don't you get down to business!" I laughed heartily. Drake is a character,—a real old Down East Yankee. He is in a fair way, barring accidents, to live to see his hundredth birthday and also to see every one of this famous organization "cross over to the other shore."

Charles F. Millett, a Norway boy, but now of Auburn, greeted me on landing, and he stuck to me like a brother till I got back to Great Diamond Island. I formed his acquaintance when I taught my first school in Norway on the east side of the lake and we have been good friends ever since. He knows more local history of that part of Norway called Lee's Grant, and of the families who lived there in the early days than any living man. From him I have obtained the genealogy of the Milletts for the new Norway History and valuable information, which but for him would have been lost.

The next man I met whom I knew was my old friend, Thomas Powers, formerly of South Paris, but now a resident of Dry Mills. "Hello, Judge, I am more pleased to see you than anyone here," was his greeting. I shall never forget overhearing him say to someone standing by while he was doing some work at the court house that he had become greatly attached to me and J. Hastings Bean and hoped we would keep our offices as long as we cared to. His regard for me touched me deeply. No truer friend or better man ever went into battle for his country. He was so severely wounded at Cedar Mt., Va., that he was not expected to live. He recovered however, and was among the first ones—sixteen thousand and something—to receive a pension. Tom Powers will never lack any assistance I am able to render him.

Norway was represented at the reunion by Henry A. Bickford. His two brothers were there. They were older than he. The oldest was over 86 years of age and well and hearty. He worked every day. Both the other brothers were proud of him. Still another brother was also a soldier. A very remarkable family surely. The oldest one will give our little Yankee friend from the Pacific Coast a pretty tight pull for the hundred mark. Henry A. Bickford had a daughter here with her family, who has no superior as a manager. Mrs. Rice has many splendid qualities and no outs and is liked and admired by all who know her. If she could have a hand in the management of the 1st, 10th and 29th association, there would be no question raised of its letting some other organization take over its effects and allowing itself to peaceably die. This matter engrossed pretty much the whole attention of the members for the day. Nothing else of moment was talked about. Major John M. Gould, secretary and historian, advocated giving over the property of the association and going out of business. The President took the same view. The general sentiment was opposed to this and the matter was placed in the hands of the trustees to report at the next annual meeting.

I felt the inspiration to talk, but not being a member of the association, had no chance to do so. I would have reminded them of the declaration of the dying Captain Lawrence, when being carried down from the deck of his vessel to his cabin after being wounded in the battle with an English ship during the war of 1812-15. This was his command to his officers and men: "Don't give up the ship."

I would have reminded them of the glorious record of the 10th Maine and how it covered the retreat of Gen. Banks' little army of 8,000 troops, down the Shenandoah Valley, Va., to Williamsport when pursued by Stonewall Jackson and a Rebel army of 20,000. I would have recalled to their minds how the 29th Maine again covered the retreat of the army under the same commander down the Red River Valley in Louisiana and checked the advance of the Confederates under Gen. Richard Taylor, at Sabine, Cross Roads. Gen. Banks had said, "Colonel Beal, you must stop the enemy here or the army is destroyed." The work was done by the men from Maine in the old 29th regiment.

One man has had for many years too much on his shoulders. The President said if Major John M. Gould should pass away, the bottom of the association would drop out. No one questioned it. I could not help thinking that what was needed was new blood in the management and a determination to keep the flag at the mast head and never say "die."

The most affecting event to me in the exercises was the verbal message of greeting from Whitmarsh, blind and helpless at his Norway home. This was done by W. K. Dana of Westbrook in a few well chosen and very appropriate remarks.

I should not forget to mention my meeting with Alphonzo Warren and Wm. Bridgham of Buckfield, who played the drum and fife. The former was the "drummer boy of Buckfield" when the Civil War broke out. He went out in Capt. Charles H. Prince's company of the 23rd Maine. The latter in the 29th Maine. I knew them well as a bay.

I met also for the first time in many years, J. Elliott Davie of Auburn. He was born in that part of Hebron near the Buckfield town line, called "Sodom." His father was a brother of my grandmother Whitman. Davie enlisted with his brother William in the 10th Maine and was a good soldier. He also served in the Coast Guards. We had a very pleasant chat of our boyhood days, now fast slipping out of our memories.

I was greatly affected by the intelligence through the Advertiser of the passing away of that sweet little angel, Dorothy W. Cummings. She was one of my pets, I did not imagine that her earthly end was so near. I shall miss her sweet voice and pleasant greetings. The passing of one so young, pure and good, is inexpressibly sad, but

"There is no death; a star goes down
To rise upon some other shore;
And bright in Heaven's jewelled crown,
It shines forevermore."

The prices here on the island are something fierce, but one can go up to the city and at reputable places get what is wanted at reasonable rates for these times. Naturally it is desirble to patronize business places near home, but when we become assured that excessive profits are being realized, such interest wholly ceases. Milk is 20 cents a quart at the store. Potatoes (new) $1.25 a peck last week, $.59 in the city; eggs 75c a dozen, 55c up town. Many cottagers are having packages from home farms sent by parcel post and the mail carrier is taxed to his capacity. He is a fine official of 16 years service and is much liked by all.

He comes once a day on the 9:30 boat (standard time) and goes from here to Little Diamond Island. If one has any carpenter work done here, he must pay $1.00 an hour or $8.00 a day and slow help at that. The "consumer" will have his innings later on, never fear. Mrs. Whitman paid $5.00 for a pair of shirts for me in the Spring at Norway. When I came later to look at the cottage with view of purchasing, I saw in a city store window as I was passing, the same garment advertised for $3.30 a pair. The other day I noticed in another store window on Congress street the same thing for $2.00 a pair. Isn't this evidence of falling prices?

We miss the old town clock which, through the efforts of Mrs. Laura A. Sanborn, Mr. Solomon I. Millett and your correspondent, the people of Norway enjoy the benefits of, but I regulate my watch by the 5 o'clock morning gun at the Fort.

Mr. Millett has passed away; Mrs. Sanborn is still in her glory—an able writer and business woman; the third member of that committee, though the author of the Municipal Court and Public Library has yet to do his best and most important work in producing a standard history of Norway.

Whenever I hear the boom of that morning gun, there comes to mind those stirring lines I first heard in the Lincoln campaign of 1860. The first stanza is as follows:

Hark! Hark! A signal gun is heard,
Just out beyond the fort;
That good old ship of state, my boys,
Is coming into port:
With shattered sails and anchors gone,
I fear the rogues will strand her;
She carries now a sorry crew,
And needs a new commander."

C. F. Whitman.

P. S. Greetings to Mrs. Clara Ames Hayden, the smartest old lady in the State of Maine. There is no reason in the world why she won't see her 100th birthday when the whole town will turn out to celebrate that event. Mrs. Drake her daughter, tenderly cares for her. The cause of my message to her through the Advertiser at this time is the fact that she is a great, great grandmother—an unbroken living line of five generations. It is rather late, I am aware, but like the Irishman who had given a Jew a severe drubbing and gave as his excuse that the Jews had crucified Christ. He was told that this event took place over 1800 years before. "That may be," said the disciple of St. Patrick, "but this is the first time I have heard of it."

When the coal is gone What then?

When the nation's supply of easily-mined, high-grade coal gets low---as experts say it will in the next third century---and the price becomes almost prohibitive, what will the nation's industries do?

Far-sighted manufacturers are already looking squarely at this problem. The only answer is hydro-electric power---and hydro-electric power is not available in every section of the country.

Because Maine has water power, some few of the more aggressive manufacturers have already moved their factories into this state and many other progressive ones are considering Maine locations for their industries.

Manufacturers are coming to a place where, as long as Maine rivers seek the sea, they will be free from the menace of high-priced and scarce coal and will be assured of hydro-electric power in satisfactory quantities.

To meet the power demands, the Central Maine Power Company is developing a power station at Skowhegan.

To finance this development the company is selling its 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock at $107.50 a share, to yield 6 1-2 per cent. net.

As the coal supply decreases, the prosperity of Maine increases, provided it has developed water powers to attract industries.

If you are interested in the future prosperity of Maine, why not send the coupon for further information about this preferred stock?

NEW USES OF CUCUMBERS

Cucumbers, when in season, are usually cheap much cheaper than corn, beans, or peas—but the average family grows tired of them served raw and so by early fall comparatively few are being eaten in American homes. Not many American housekepers know their possibilities as a cooked vegetable, but in other countries they are used in the same way as are egg-plant, squash, and corn. They have a flavor all their own and afford a pleasant change in the diet.

The following recipes have been taken largely from foreign cookbooks and are favorites of housewives of other countries. They have been tested by United States Department of Agriculture home economics specialists. Some day, when there are more cucumbers on the vines than can be used for pickles or in the usual salads, try one of these recipes. You may find that your family will like them baked, boiled, or fried as well as do the Swiss or the French.

Garnish For Fish and Meats

Peel and cut a large cucumber in pieces about two inches long. Scoop out one end. Fill with meat or fish sauce and use as garnish and serve one with each portion of meat. The sauce and cucumber, eaten with the meat, makes a good relish.

Baked Cucumbers

Use solid cucumbers of the same size. Peel and cut lengthise, scooping out the inside carefully and leaving the shell one-quarter to one-half inch in thicknes. To four cucumbers use:

One cup bread crumbs, one tablespoon butter, two teaspoons salt, two teaspoons onion, finely chopped, pepper. The part of the cucumber scooped out.

If seeds are large, do not use the seedy part. Fill cucumbers, sprinkle some buttered bread crumbs on top. Bake until tender—about 30 minutes in moderate oven.

Stewed Cucumbers With Sauce

Slice cucumbers into pieces an inch long and cook until tender in salted water. Serve hot with sauce made as follows.

One tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, two-thirds cup rich milk, yolks of two eggs, well beaten, one teaspoon vinegar, salt and pepper.

Mix butter and flour in frying pan. When blended, add milk and cook until rather thick. Pour over eggs and vinegar.

Fried Cucumbers

Peel and cut cucumbers in lengthwise slices . Roll in flour and fry in deep fat until golden brown. Serve very hot.

Sauted Cucumbers and Onions

One tablespoon butter or drippings, two cucumbers, one small onion, one-half cup milk or cream, salt and pepper.

Fry onion in butter until golden brown then add sliced cucumbers and cook until tender. Add cream or milk and season well with salt and pepper.

Cucumber Jelly

Six cucumbers, one pint water, one tablespoon vinegar, one ounce gelatin, one small onion, two teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper.

Pare cucumbers and cut in small pieces. Peel onion, slice, cover with boiling water, and cook with the cucumbers until tender. Press through a sieve. Soak gelatin in one-half cup cold water for five minutes. Add two cups boiling water, stirring until disolved, then add to cucumbers and onion and turn into mould. Serve with mayonnoise dressing.

One cucumber peeled and grated, one egg yolk, juice of one lemon, two teaspoons prepared mustard, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper.

Cucumber Salad Dressing

Beat egg yolk lightly, add to it the juice of the lemon. Add grated cucumber, mustard, and season to taste.

This dressing is most excellent for vegetable salad, meat salad and with fish salad.

STATE HEALTH ORGANIZATION

The Maine State Department of Health has at present reached a development in its work where eight separate divisions as well as a corps of workers in the field are supervising the good health of the state. The personnel of the Department now consists of the commissioner, eight district health officers, and directors, together with clerks and stenographers of the following divisions: administration, diagnostic laboratores, sanitary engineering laboratories, vital statistics, venereal disease, public health nursing and child hygiene, public health education and publicity, and communicable disease. These workers are all at the service of the citizens of Maine for the promotion of better health, and work in close co-operation with local health boards, various private state organization, and the Red Cross.

PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY

There is no magic which the state and the local health departments can work for the betterment of the public health. Their results are obtained through patient and persistent efforts of education and law enforcement. Probably the best work of the health departments is in the education of the public to a sense of personal responsibility for their own and the community's health, as the well being of the community must be governed by the well being of the individuals in it, says the Maine Department of Health.

JUSTICE SPEAR AGAINST THE FLY

Recognition of the fact that the house fly is a menace to the public health and is not to be tolerated where it can spread its filth upon human food, is found in an opinion recently rendered by Justice Spear of the Maine Supreme court. The case which Justice Spear has granted a new trial on the above grounds is that of Lucius R. Williams, a hotel keeper in York County, against Frederick A. Sweet a one-time guest at the hotel, who with his family left the hotel because of the alleged numerous flies which infested the dining room near the table assigned his party, thereby breaking his contract with the proprietor for two weeks' board and rooms. The inn-keeper brought suit against Mr. Sweet for the full amount of the bill which the contract called for. The verdict in the case was originally rendered the hotel keeper, and upon appeal to the law court a new trial was granted by Justice Spear, who holds that Mr. Sweet was within rights in breaking his contract because of the insanitary condition caused by the flies.

The keynote of the opinion is contained in the following quotation from it. "The real issue involves but a single question of fact; was the defendent justified in leaving the hotel on account of the fault of the plaintiff in allowing flies to collect at the defendant's table in such numbers as to become insanitary and repulsive? We think he was. It is a matter of common knowledge that the house fly has come to be regarded by enlightened understanding, not only as one of the most annoying and repulsive of insects, but as one of the most dangerous in its capacity to gather, carry and disseminate the germs of disease. He is the meanest of all scavengers. He delights in reveling in all kinds of filth. Of every vermin, he is above all others the least able to prove an alibi when charged with having been in touch with every kind of corruption and with having been contaminated with the germs thereof. The danger with which his presence is fraught is a matter of common knowledge and hence of judicial notice."

In rendering his opinion, Justice Spear made use of scientific bulletins and circulars issued by the Maine Department of Health, which he frequently quoted. The Department feels that in this judicial recognition of the fly menace to health, a marked advance has been made in the anti-fly campaign which it has long been waging for the protection of the public.

READ THIS!

It is not necessary for your children to have measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever and other so-called diseases of childhood, positively assert the Maine Department of Health. There is no more false and harmful statement than the old saying "The younger they have it the better." Having contagious diseases today is often only a mark of ignorance and neglect. It has been aptly said "Contagion is an offspring of dirt, a relative of disease, and a chum of death. It springs from neglect and is the result of excuses." To deliberately expose a child to such a disease as measles, as some mothers have been known to do, is little less than a crime.

THE HOT LUNCH

The hot lunch for school children has been demonstrated to be of both physical and mental benefit to the child. Seven distinct advantages in the plan can be instantly pointed out:

1.—Improved physical condition of the pupils.

2.—Improved power of learning.

3.—Makes discipline in the afternoon easier as restlessness, irritability and "nerves" often result from faulty nutrition.

4.—Does away with the hurried haphazard eating customary with the cold lunch.

5.—Gives opportunity to teach table manners and proper eating habits.

6.—Creates a social bond between pupils and teacher.

7.—Opportunity is given the teacher to interest the pupils in food values, proper appreciation for correct food and its preparation.

To measure rainfall it is necessary to use a rain gauge. In its common form it consists of a cylindrical vessel closed at the top by a funnel-shaped lip, through a hole in the center of which the rain falls. A narrow glass tube rising outside the vessel from near the bottom, shows the amount of rain in the vessel. A very simple rain gauge consists of a copper funnel, the area of whose opening is ten square inches. This funnel allows the rain to pass into a bottle and the quantity of rain caught is ascertained by multiplying the weight in ounces by 173, which gives the depth in inches. A rain gauge must be placed in an open position as possible, away from trees, houses or other obstructions.

It has been said by those who either have no Maine Gems to sell, or else because of ignorance that there is no such thing as a Maine Gem. Chamber Of Commerce Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, August 18, there was a good attendance and considerable important business transacted. Ten new members have recently been voted into membership, bringing the total to about 85. It was voted to change the by-laws and hold the regular meetings the third Wednesday of each month, Directors will meet once in two weeks. Plans for cooperating with the Grand Trunk for the improvement of the "Common" are rapidly being perfected. The Chamber expects the assistance of all good citizens in this work which cannot fail to be of great benefit to our community.

Hathaway, the Bates freshman pitcher was also effective and the team played errorless ball behind him.

Work on the new park in front of the railway station is progressing rapidly. The rocks have been removed and the knoll near the center leveled off. Work will be suspended for a few days until the gravel to be furnished by the Grand Trunk arrives. The State Highway Commissioners have consented to have the road passing the park improved and work will commence on that at once. The New England Telephone Company have also agreed to replace the poles there and to paint them.

The Woodstock Athletic Club's second team was defeated by the Milton team at Milton, Saturday. The third game will be played here this week.

Among the five Oxford County boys to receive scholarships at the University of Maine for next year were Hiram O. Noyes and C. Roger Lappin of this town. Lappin and Hathaway are both graduates of Woodstock High school but Noyes graduated from Deering High School.

TWICE-TOLD TESTIMONY

Norway People Are Doing All They Can For Fellow Sufferers

Norway testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Norway who suffer from bad backs and kidney ills. Lest any sufferer doubt this evidence of merit, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Norway people who again endorse Doan's Kidney Pills—confirm their former testimony. Here's a Norway case:

S. C. Foster, barber, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and I am only too glad to say to others I think they are the best of kidney medicines. Several years ago I had kidney trouble. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. P. Stone's Drug Store and I was soon feeling all right again. I remained so for a long time, but later caught cold and my kidneys gave me trouble. I again took Doan's and they gave me relief."

EIGHT YEARS LATER, Mr. Foster added: "I still think as well of Doan's Kidney Pills today as when I first endorsed them. I used them occasionally, as I feel in need of them and I am always promptly benefited."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Foster had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Can the Leopard Change His Spots

IN 1913

Warren G. Harding, through his newspaper, the Marion, O. Star, vilified Theodore Roosevelt. He said:

"In seeking a prototype for Col. Roosevelt among American public men, one finds the closest resemblance to Aaron Burr."
"Benedict Arnold is more like Roosevelt for he won his country's plaudits and turned traitor."

IN 1920

Warren G. Harding, reactionary of reactionaries, is preaching the same doctrine he preached in 1912. He has made "reaction" the real faith of a betrayed Republican party, and declared war on progress.

GUARD AGAINST BREAKDOWNS

The human machine is more wonderful in its structure and capacity than any machine made by human hands and it is amazing how much work this machine can accomplish in spite of the careless manner in which most people care for its wellbeing. It will continue to function in spite of abuse and neglect and can be overdriven for long periods of time without completely breaking down. But a machine of any kind, in order to render best service, must be given the best of treatment. Don't break down your body by careless handling. Don't send yourself to the human scrap heap, or wear out and die when you should be in your prime. Take care of your health.
